

PUBLIC NOTICE - Resuming Environmental Health Services (COVID-19)

Since March 23, 2020, the normal environmental health land use services were restricted to those that were necessary to sustain or protect life or that were determined to constitute an imminent threat to public health. Since then, several executive orders have lessened restrictions on businesses and the Health Department has been in a process of reopening service carefully and, at this time, most Environmental Health services are now available.

Effective June 29, 2020, our offices have reopened to the public. We have put many precautions in place to protect our employees and the public. Any in-person office visit will require the use of a mask or face covering and clients will be asked to respect social distancing within our facilities.

We are still promoting remote application processes, if in-person office visits can be avoided. Applications can be applied for remotely with a credit card or dropped off (with payment) at any of our branch offices via drop box. Please call for any clarification of the application process; 1-800-432-4121.

All applications must have a physical address & property TAX ID

Due to the ongoing risks presented by potential COVID-19 transmission to our staff and to the community, environmental health field services may be arranged, in advance of any site visits, so there are no unnecessary personal contacts, to the extent possible.

Not observing the agreed upon conditions of site inspections or any condition that compromises the safety of our staff, may result in our staff leaving the site and rescheduling the service and possible reinspection fee charges.
